

The Crucible, Act III by Arthur Miller
Vocabulary Warm-up Word Lists

Study these words from the selection. Then, complete the activities.

Word List A

anonymity [a nuh NIM uh tee] n. condition of being nameless; obscurity

The official said she would be quoted only on condition of anonymity.

baffled [BAF uhld] v. puzzled; mystified

Sue's behavior baffled us; we could see no reason or motive for it.

disruption [dis RUP shuhn] n. disturbance

An accident in the tunnel led to a major disruption of the traffic flow.

dutiful [DYOO ti fuhl] adj. obedient; conscientious

Polly had a dutiful attitude toward her parents, never violating their wishes.

extravagance [eks TRAV uh guhns] n. lavish show or expenditure

Living his life with extravagance, he soon faced the prospect of bankruptcy.

perjury [PUR juhr ee] n. lying under oath

If you are convicted of perjury, you could be fined and imprisoned.

prodigious [pruh DIJ uhs] adj. very large; remarkable

We were able to reach the mountaintop only with prodigious effort.

random [RAN duhm] adj. by chance; haphazard

That poll was taken on a random basis, with respondents chosen by chance.

Word List B

apprehensively [ap ree HEN siv lee] adv. fearfully

Carla lived apprehensively, as she always worried about her health.

befuddled [bee FUHD uhld] v. confused

In his tennis matches, Ben often befuddled his opponents with drop shots.

connivance [kuh NYV uhns] n. cooperation in a wrongful activity

The connivance of several employees helped the criminals rob the bank.

lurks [LERKS] v. stays hidden; exists unobserved

Walking at night, Otis always fears that a mugger lurks in every corner.

placidly [PLA sid lee] adv. peacefully

After drinking a bowl of milk, the cat placidly lay down by the fireside.

loys [PLOYS] n. tricks; strategies

Renzo learned new loys that would improve his chess game.

qualm [KWAHLM] n. sudden feeling of doubt; twinge of conscience

Chet hadn't the slightest qualm in asking his boss for a raise.

remorseless [ree MORS luhs] adj. pitiless; merciless

The cat seemed remorseless in its stalking of the small bird in the shrubbery.